Malaga, August 12. N. S.

IT might have been expected that the little progress the Moores have made in the Siege of Ceuta, and the great losses they have sustained, would before this time have induced them to quit it; At present they are under new difficulties by the March of the Algerines into the Dominions of Muly Ismael, and their Success against part of his Forces, which has obliged him to assemble all the Troops he can to oppose them; and in all probability, those before Ceuta, will be called from thence, and employed on this Service. We have an account from Catalonia, that the French have abandoned several small Places which they were possessed of near the Sea side, and that their Army is marched back towards Gironne. The Spanish Forces continue in their Camp near Ostalric, where their new Viceroy is arrived, and has taken upon him the Command, in the place of the Marquis de Gastañaga, who is returning to Madrid.

Vienna, August 22. The design of the Imperialists in attacking Temeswar being only to divert the Enemy from passing the Save, and marching towards Peter-Waradin, and by drawing them towards Temeswar in order to relieve it, to gain an opportunity of Engaging them in a Battle; The Elector of Saxony no sooner received Advice that they were marched towards Titul, but he resolved to quit the Siege, and to follow the Enemy, as well to pursue the intention of fighting them, as to preserve a place, which, tho' small, is of consequence to us in securing the Communication between the two Rivers, Theysse and Danube; Our last Letters left the Army on their march thither; and our next may probably bring an account of some Action. The Reports concerning the Enemies

Strength come with so much uncertainty, that they cannot be relied upon; but this all agree in, that the best part of their Army is composed of new Men, who never served in the War before. The Imperialists are reckoned 5000, all Veteran Troops. The young Count of Wallestein who has been at the Court of Brandenburg, with the Character of the Emperor's Envoy Extraordinary, returned hither some days ago.

Mentz, Aug. 25. A great quantity of Bread is Baking here for the Confederate Forces, who are coming this way, and are expected in 4 or 5 days. Prince Lewis of Baden having sent an Officer before to have all things in a readiness in order to their passing the Rhine. The Marechal de Coblentz, with the French Army, is here upon approach nearer to Philipsburg. The Imperial Hussars, who are posted at Castheim near this place, have within these 4 or 5 days taken and brought in above 100 Prisoners.

Coblenz, August 26. The German Forces, who are returned from the Moselle under the command of the Landgrave of Hesse, passed over our Bridge yesterday and this day. The Landgrave had this day a Conference with the Elector of Trier, and in the afternoon went to his Camp near this place, and to morrow his Troops will continue their march on the other side of the Rhine towards Mentz, where they are to join the rest of the German Forces. The Marquis de Harcourt, who is going to join the French Army commanded by the Marechal de Coblentz, with a Detachment from the Country of Luxembourg, passed the Moselle the 23d Instant at Liffar, by means of a flying Bridge, which was brought from Thionville for that purpose.

Dublin, September 2. They write from Kinsale of the 31th, that the Virginia Ships continued in that Port; And from Cork of the same Date, That the Susanna of Bristol, Capt. Vickary Commander, arrived there two days before from Jamaica, laden with Sugar, Cotton, and Indico, and bound to Bristol.
